WASHINGTON, December 13.—As Mr. Gorham and his friends were confident of his nomination for Secretary of the Senate their disappointment was great when it was announced at noon that the caucus had given it to General Anson G. McKee.

At the afternoon session Charles Johnson, of Minnesota, was nominated to be chief clerk, and James R. Young, of Pennsylvania, to be executive clerk of the Senate. E. R. Huntley, pastor of the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal church, Washington, formerly of Wisconsin, to be chaplain; and W. P. Canady, of North Carolina, for sergeant-at-arms. A resolution was offered and unanimously adopted to retain wounded soldiers now on the rolls of the Senate in their positions. There were only six votes against the nomination of Canady for sergeant-at-arms. The question of the presidency of the Senate was informally discussed, but no action taken, the matter being left to the end of the last caucus. When the time for the caucus arrived Mr. Anthony will receive the nomination.

A DENIAL FROM MR. DEZENHOF. WASHINGTON, December 13.—Mr. Dezenhof, chairman of the State Central Committee of the Republican party of Virginia, says that the statement that the conference of Republicans from Virginia held in this city on the 11th instant appointed a committee to wait on the National Committee and demand recognition is not true. The conference appointed a committee with instructions, in the event that any resolution was offered in the National Committee looking to the recognition of the Readjuster party of Virginia as entitled to representation in the National Convention, to present a protest of the regular Republicans of Virginia, on the ground that such action on the part of the National Committee was not authorized by any rule of the party organization, and would be a usurpation of authority residing in the party of the National Committee. As no action was taken by the National Committee, the protest was not offered.

THE NEGRO CONFERENCE IN NORFOLK. A GOOD DEAL OF CONFUSION, AND A NUMBER OF FANCIED GRIEVANCES THE OUTCOME. [Special telegram to the Dispatch.] NORFOLK, Va., December 13.—A convention of negroes from various parts of the State was held at Sam Houston Hall to-day to take into consideration the Danville riot. About fifty persons were present. The meeting was called to order by Dr. Thomas Payne, and on motion, Peter J. Carter, of Northampton county, was elected permanent chairman. The chairman stated that the meeting was for the purpose of taking action in reference to the massacre of colored men at Danville; that there has never been occasion to hold a meeting of this kind in Virginia before. A great responsibility rested on the delegates present. Much noise and confusion followed. A delegate from Culpeper county was elected permanent secretary, and it was decided to call the meeting a "Conference of the Representative Colored Men of Virginia." The body then went into secret session, and a committee on address and resolutions was appointed and reported. A lengthy address was made by the speaker, touching various grievances, mostly of an imaginary character, and calling upon the colored people to be patient and forbearing and trust in the God of Justice to right their wrongs.

A NEW YORK FERRY-BOT BURNED. [By telegraph to the Dispatch.] NEW YORK, December 13.—The ferry-boat Garden City, of the East-River Ferry Company, carrying passengers and cargo, was today in its berth at the foot of James' street. Several horses were burned, but all the passengers and employees on the boat escaped, so far as known at present. The boat is a wreck. It is valued at $100,000 and partly insured. The boat had just left its slip on its way to Long Island City, and was burning. The fire started in the bow, and spread rapidly. The engines were reversed and the boat backed into the slip, but so rapid was the spread of the flames that before it reached the bridge the flames were wrapped in flames from bow to stern. In a desperate jump for the bulkhead of the ferry slip, to save himself, the pilot dislocated his shoulder, but fell out of reach of the flames. The engineer, Samuel Tracy, ran through the flames and reached the deck with his hat and coat on fire. The deck was burning. The fire spread to the hull, and the boat was in flames. The fire was extinguished by the fire department. The boat was a wreck. The fire was a great loss to the ferry company.

CHANGES IN THE POSTAL LAWS. Mr. Bingham, of Pennsylvania, proposes that the Postmaster-General shall be authorized to pay one year's salary to the widows or minor children of postal clerks killed while in the discharge of duty. He also wants postal clerks to be paid traveling expenses while on the business of the department. He proposes to reduce the postage on drop letters and to fix the rate of postage on matter of the first-class on each ounce or fraction thereof.

THE SENATE ADJOURNS UNTIL MONDAY. The Senate to-day adjourned until Monday, and hence the resumed session of officers cannot be considered until Tuesday. This body consumed its session in discussing the new rules, but was unable to reach a conclusion on even the first rule. The House, when it meets to-morrow, will probably adjourn until Monday.

PERSONAL NEWS ITEMS. Major Wise and John Blackstone, of Acco, came, were at the Capitol today. Candidates for Secretary and Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate are each about forty-eight years of age. S. M. Pitts was to-day commissioned postmaster at Island, Va., and J. H. Goodman at Ballsville, Va. The deputy collector of the Fourth North Carolina district, telegraphs the Department that he has captured in France canoe three illicit distilleries and 6,500 gallons of beer. Speaker Carlisle is reported quite sick. Senator Jones, of Nevada, was in his seat to-day. The President went to see Mrs. Langtry to-night. Mr. Haskell, of Kansas, wants the Speaker to administer the oath to him in his sick-room.

THE SENATE CLERKSHIP. GENERAL MCKEE, OF NEW YORK, NOMINATED BY THE SENATE. [By telegraph to the Dispatch.] WASHINGTON, December 13.—The Republican senators were in caucus from 10 till 12 o'clock to-day discussing the reorganization of the Senate. Senator Mahone was present at the beginning. A motion was made and carried to proceed to the nomination of a caucus candidate for Secretary of the Senate. Senator Jones, of Nevada, nominated Hon. George C. Gorham, of California; Senator Miller, of New York, nominated General Anson G. McKee, of New York.

Senator Harrison nominated Major D. M. Ramsdell, of New York. Eulogistic speeches were made in support of each candidate, and a running debate followed, in which a majority of the senators took part.

UPON AN INFORMAL vote to-day, McKee, 16; Gorham, 15; Ramsdell, 3. A formal ballot followed immediately, resulting: McKee, 19; Gorham, 12; Ramsdell, 3.

General McKee was thereupon declared the nominee of the caucus. The caucus adjourned to reassemble after the adjournment of the Senate to-day.

General McKee was not a candidate in the accepted sense of the term for any office in the gift of the Senate. Some time ago Senator McKee, of New York, wrote asking him to enter the caucus for the Secretaryship, and to come to Washington for that purpose. McKee replied that the office was one of high honor, and that he would accept the nomination if it was conferred upon him. He declined, however, to come to Washington or enter the caucus personally. No one was authorized on his behalf to solicit the votes of senators.

The opponents of Gorham took the ground that his attitude as a journalist in respect to the Garfield-Conkling differences and to the star-route trials had been such as to create bitter enmities toward himself, and that his nomination for the Secretaryship would have a tendency to revive party differences, which were in process of healing. The debate was courteous in tone and devoid of offensive personalities.

Mr. Mahone made a speech in defense of Gorham, stating that while he was not present to influence the result by his vote, he had a duty to his constituents to perform. The defeat of Gorham would be misinterpreted throughout the South as in some sense a repudiation of the Liberal movement. The opponents of the Liberal movement (the Mahone) knew that such an interpretation of the action of the caucus, whatever it might be, would be erroneous. He eulogized Gorham's work in connection with the Liberal movement, and stated that he should support the nomination of the caucus, whenever they might be. Mahone did not vote upon the nomination. Riddleberger was not present.

At the afternoon session Charles Johnson, of Minnesota, was nominated to be chief clerk, and James R. Young, of Pennsylvania, to be executive clerk of the Senate. E. R. Huntley, pastor of the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal church, Washington, formerly of Wisconsin, to be chaplain; and W. P. Canady, of North Carolina, for sergeant-at-arms.
